Submission of Manuscripts

All submissions should be made online to the editor via the link on the Journal page.

Please send two versions of your manuscript: one with your name and details ("author file") and one anonymised to be sent to referees ("referee file").

Length and Format: There is no minimum length but typically articles will be 5,000 – 10,000 words, with the latter as an upper limit including notes, bibliography, etc. Please also include an abstract of up to 200 words and up to 10 keywords.

Spelling: should follow British English spelling conventions, not US English, including: "-ise" and "-isation" rather than "-ize" or "-ization" This does not of course apply to citations from other works, which should be in their original form. Please consult the Shorter Oxford Dictionary or Concise Oxford Dictionary for standard spellings.

References: should be in the form of in-text citations rather than footnotes, and should always include page numbers for direct quotations. If there is more than one publication in a year, differentiate with letters: 2007a, 2007b. Footnotes or endnotes may be used for elucidation of points. Reference format:

(Brown, 2010: 110)
(Brown & Smith, 2008: 25)
(The Guardian, 3rd September 2010: 5)

Bibliography

This should be provided in alphabetical order by surname of author at the end of the article, with full details and in the following formats:

Monograph

Bramall, Chris (2000), Sources of Chinese Economic Growth, 1978-1996, New York: Oxford UP.

Edited Volume

Wright, Tim (ed.) (1992), The Chinese Economy in the Early Twentieth Century: Recent Chinese Studies, Houndmills: Macmillan Press.

Paper in Edited Volume

Dissertation or Thesis

Chen, Lily (2000) "The Effect of Functional Role on Language Choice in Newspapers", unpublished PhD thesis, Durham University.

Website

All citations of Internet websites should include the full URL and the date that it was accessed.

Gentz, Joachim (2010) "Hermeneutics of Multiple Senses: Wang Jie's 'Explanations and Commentary with Diagrams to the Qingjing Jing", Journal of Chinese Philosophy, available at: <http://onlinelibrary.wiley.com/doi/10.1111/j.1540-6253.2010.01590.x/full> (accessed 06.09.2010).

Foreign Language Publications

For non-Latin scripts provide romanised version with translation of title:

Zhou Yang, "Jiu xingshi zai wenxueshang de liyong de yige kanfa" (An opinion on the use of old forms in literature), Zhongguo wenhua 1:1 (15 February 1940):34-40.

Chinese Romanisation

Use pinyin romanisation except for the small number of names most commonly found in other versions. Remember that pinyin does not use hyphens e.g. Wen Jiabao, while Wade-Giles does e.g. Sun Yat-sen. Use Chinese word order, family name first, for Chinese names.
